Are solar panels a scam?

Scammers often advertise "$0 down on owning solar panels" or "solar panels at no cost" but don't disclose that the homeowner won't own the panels. Lease and PPA agreements typically prevent homeowners from benefiting from most federal and state incentive programs and also have hidden fees and unfriendly financial terms.

How do I avoid a crappy solar panel deal?

To avoid a crappy solar panel deal, watch out for these scammy sales tactics. Solar panels are a great way to invest in your home and eventually reduce your power bills. However, installing solar panels is an expensive investment that takes years before they will pay for themselves, even with quality products.

Are residential solar panels legit?

Likely it means the product advertised is either a power purchase agreement or a solar lease. Though this means you don't pay a large up-front cost for the panels, you will pay monthly to the company that owns them. These are legitimate services and part of the reason residential solar has exploded in the last decade.
